< Back to the Question

Correct Option

- Referencing from the Zillions side.

This is the preferred representation for a One-to-Zillions relationship.

Incorrect Options

- Embedding as an array.

Because we are talking about more than a billion people being born in the same country, putting these people in the document for the country would create a gigantic document, exceeding the limitation on the document size.

- Referencing from the One side.

Even just keeping the references to people in the document for a given country would create a document exceeding the limitation on the document size.
